Casting Directors . . .

Dr. Gilbert Willey

Directing a crew of almost 13,700 is the responsibility of Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Gilbert S. Willey, and Associate Superintendent, Dr. James Pelley. Nearly 13,000 students and approximately 700 employees in 28 schools are under their supervision.

"The aims of school administration should be to improve learning conditions for pupils and working conditions for all employees," according to Dr. Willey, who is responsible for the practical and fundamental offerings in the school system. The effects of curricular improvements may not be obvious for a few years, but immediately visible results of his work are the redecoration and lighting which provide more advantageous studying conditions at Lincoln High School.

The task of coordinating the work of all supervisors and instructors is the concern of Dr. James Pelley. "The administration always wants to promote greater use of new tools for instruction and learning," says Dr. Pelley. "This year the system has been modernized by the promotion of audio-visual education." These advancements are timed and coordinated under his direction.

Through just such planning for the future the school system of the city of Lincoln each year presents to the community well prepared citizens, who may look ahead to successful lives.

Dr. James Pelley

THE SCHOOL BOARD: Mrs. Roscoe S. Hill; J. Lee Rankin; Robert C. Venner, President; Dr. Gilbert Willey, Superintendent of Schools; Elmer E. Magee; Dr. S. G. Zemer; John P. Senning, Vice-President.

Program Director . . .

Front and center!

Into the spotlight steps H. C. Mardis, the man of the hour. . . .

Mr. Mardis is often called upon to act as author, director, and even as announcer.

He writes the prologue to many a career with his sound decisions on school policy. As principal of Lincoln High School, Mr. Mardis, in no small way, has made this school an important factor leading to success for many students. His counsel and decisions are of benefit to pupils, not only while they attend L. H. S., but long after they have graduated, gone on to advanced schools, and established careers.

Director Mardis states, "The school tries to provide subjects that will fill the needs of the Lincoln High student, not subjects which merely fill five hours." Under his direction, this aim of Mr. Mardis is carried out, for in addition to the essential "3 R's," there are subjects which not only teach students what they need to know, but teach them in an interesting and often entertaining manner.

Announcing the schedule of the day, Mr. Mardis takes his place as news commentator to broadcast over Station L.H.S. Whether it's a very important assembly or a club announcement that affects only a few, Mr. Mardis is willing to report it. Day after day, he has given his time and energy to make Lincoln High School one of the outstanding preparatory schools of the state. Under his leadership and through his planning and never-ceasing interest in the school and the student, Lincoln High can look forward to becoming an even greater school.

Mr. H. C. Mardis

"Take a letter please". . . MISS DOROTHY BEEVER is secretary to Principal H. C. Mardis.

Absence bulletin. . . typed by capable office assistant, MISS ANNA NIELSEN.

A recommendation? Transcript of grades? See MRS. PHYLLIS SMITH, efficient L. H. S. record clerk.

STUDENT COUNCIL: Standing: Anderson, Good, Barger, Wiederspan, vice-president; Beamis. Seated: Dewey, Park, Bailey, Church, Hamilton, Hemphill, Anderson, secretary-treasurer; Hardy, Wiebe, Bell, editor; Rogers. At the table: Martin, vice-president; Hickey, secretary-treasurer; Loudon, president; Berry, editor, president.

Student Directors . . .

Phyllis Loudon, Judy Wiebe, and Barbara Bell are busy with the "paper work," essential to an effective organization.

A sound announcement by Nancy Hemphill calls for a little help from Ted Barger.

The newcomers party gives newcomers a pleasant introduction to Lincoln High School.

"Mighty Mike for Sheriff!" and similar slogans were popular during the campaigning in connection with the County Day participation sponsored by the Student Council.

The Student Council organized the filing, checked candidates to make sure they were legally qualified, directed the printing of ballots, and counted ballots in both the primary and the general election.

The Council is made up of twelve seniors, six juniors, and two sophomores who are elected by and represent their classes. The group is organized to promote school activities, to accept and consider proposals made by members of the student body, to cooperate with the faculty in maintaining the standards of the school, and to create and maintain a consciousness of the responsibility of the school to the community.

Student Council responsibilities also include the direction of the E.C.A. point system, hall guards and hall guides, the club schedule, the publication of the handbook, the newcomers party, and Open House.

Meetings are held each Wednesday at 2:40, and student questions and suggestions, often coming from the question box posted outside the main office, are discussed.

"Joy Night on the Air" was the year's theme for the annual variety show presented by Student Council and gladly accepted by the student body and the community.

This year's Council also inaugurated a popular student football banquet, which brought forth a regal King and Queen.

Student Council keeps things at Lincoln High alive and moving as "the show goes on."

Harlan Wiederspan does the checking while Larry Good and Jim Bailey add to the club schedule.

Advisory Boards . . .

The home room basketball tourney created quite a stir. Jerry Pegans, Darrell Minchow, Dick Kroeller, Dick Myers, Kenneth Koenig, Lowell Sohl, and Phil Sorensen showed their loyalty to 315 by signing up with representative, Tommy Spahn.

Right this way! Representatives, Dick Wieland, Bob Volz, and Jack Trabert, do their bit at Open House by putting up guide signs.

327 Representative, Bonnie Tiangco, makes an activity ticket sale to Louise Watkins, while LaVonne Locker waits her turn.

Absences, tardies, ballots, etc., are recorded by the representative and alternate. Marj Moran and Peggy Keith do the job in 321. Near the table are Jo Vlach, Yvonne Shrader, Sally Sieck, John Schwindt, Gus Sindt, and Mary Ellen Slagle.

It is 1:40 p. m. on the second or fourth Wednesday of the month. You turn on your television set and see a group of about sixty boys and girls in the L.H.S. auditorium.

Who are they? What do they do? 'Tis a good question, easily answered. They are Home Room Representatives meeting to discuss problems which affect students' activities and affairs.

"Home room such-and-such has gone so many days without a tardy," is the poster designed by the representative tardy committee for each home room. The number is changed each day to one higher number unless the room has a tardy and must start at zero again.

Daily duties of a representative include taking the home room attendance and helping the teacher. Representatives are responsible for selling activity tickets and other tickets, turning in Red Cross and Community Chest drive money, and reporting meetings to their home rooms.

Assisting the home room representative is the faithful alternate, who performs the duties when the representative is absent and always distributes the Advocates to home room subscribers.

These 124 citizens of L.H.S. work for the best interests of the student body just as the U. S. Congress works for the interests of U. S. citizens.

... Behind the Scenes

Otto W. Hackman

Genial? Understanding? You bet!!

Yes, that's Otto W. Hackman, boys advisor and assistant principal, who has been with Lincoln High School for almost thirty-two years in either a teaching or an administrative capacity.

Although one of the busiest men in school, he is never too occupied to handle the smallest registration detail, program difficulty, or general problem of any student.

Mr. Hackman estimates that an average number of 40 pupils pass through his office every day, and usually the most dejected face is smiling upon leaving the able counselor's door.

Commenting on the most satisfying result of his work, he believes that the tougher a pupil's problems, the more gratifying are the final results when a successful verdict is reached.

Also an able and efficient assistant principal is Miss Dorcas Weatherby, fashionable and congenial counselor of girls, who helps the girls with many of their problems.

She may inform them of a special honor or question them about that grade that needs bringing up, but Miss Weatherby is sympathetic and helpful when anyone brings personal problems to her.

Miss Weatherby is living proof that smiling faces, curly dark hair, and sparkling brown eyes are found behind the scenes as well as on the television screen.

Miss Dorcas Weatherby

Newcomers, Sam Richter and Mary Hindmarsh, know the people to see if they want to get off to a good start; they go right to Mr. Hackman and Miss Weatherby.

The Business Staff . . .

makes business world headlines with its practical typing, shorthand, and merchandising techniques, as students prepare to take their place in the adult world--

The new Gregg simplified method, a boon to all shorthand students, is being ushered into L.H.S. this year by MISS EULALIE BRATCHER, who is also co-sponsor of the Usherettes.

Where does the money go? MISS ESTHER LEFLER knows where every cent of L.H.S. money goes, as it passes through her hands into the school bank.

There's nothing too good for L.H.S. students . . . Mary Ann Lauer operates the dictaphone, while Pat Gunn uses the mimeoscope.

"Your seat? Right this way." The Usherettes have been efficiently trained by their co-sponsor, MRS. EVELYN NEYHART.

Downstairs? Center? Row M? Seat 3? MISS EFFIE NOLL handles all school ticket sales and also teaches commercial subjects.

... and teaches apprentices to convince a wary public that it needs their talents and their products.

Pat Beam and Pat Tracy test the fabric of all merchandise to insure the satisfaction of their customers.

A spirited interest in everything around her is transmitted to her classes by MRS. FRANCES REIN, who teaches typing and helps to sponsor the Business Club.

A-S-D-F... MRS. RUTH SALYARDS not only teaches familiar typing technique but also gives instructions for the use of new machines.

K-A-T spells cat? Yes, it does, if you want to write about the little pet in shorthand.

Script Writers . . .

*present the past, the present,
and their ideas of the future,
using just the right nouns, verbs, adjectives, and adverbs.*

L.H.S. received a prolonged face-lifting when the interior decorators went to work on all the halls and classrooms.

The teachers must have given a good report, judging from the smiling faces of Kay Erickson, Colleen Farrell, Sandra Sick and their guests, Mr. Farrell and Mr. and Mrs. Sick, at Open House.

Everything from Chaucer to conjunctions is made interesting in MISS ETHEL BRYANT'S English classes.

Colossal! Super! Terrific! . . . the noon movies are planned by ALVA CAVETT, English instructor and business manager for the Athletic Department.

MISS ELSIE ENGLISH gives her "Time" to your "Life" and your "Fortune" in her interesting magazine classes and the National Honor Society.

The Advocate! dear to every student's heart!!! comes out under the able direction of MISS BELLE FARMAN, head of the English Department.

Alva Cavett

The sneering Malvolio, Jack Rogers, seems to be very irritating to Toby, David Meisenholder, who is being held by Sir Andrew, Denny Johnsen, and hushed by Maria, Winifred Stolz, in an English 5 version of a scene from "Twelfth Night."

Holding the purse strings for the Advocate is MISS BESSIE FISHER, financial advisor, who also holds strings on the Sophomores as one of their sponsors.

MISS CEAL FOSTER will "Remember Mama" as well as the Senior Class, which she helps sponsor.

Photographer extraordinary is MISS ELIZABETH GRONE, candid photography advisor for the Links.

New library books are always welcome, even if they bring a labeling job for library assistants, Darlene Selden, Barbara Moralez, and Joan Winkler.

The big responsibility of the Scribe falls upon the capable shoulders of MRS. AGNES HEILMAN, Writers Club sponsor and teacher of business law and English.

L-I-N-K-S . . . not a cheer, but the one word uppermost in the mind of MISS IRENE MARTIN, editorial advisor of The Links.

All sorts of interesting characters leap from the files of MISS ESTHER MONTGOMERY, who is also responsible for assembly variety.

Channel 16 . . . the Variety Show . . . Joy Night . . . directed by MISS MARGARET O'ROURKE, co-sponsor of Student Council.

MISS FREDA SCHMELING is the new teacher who prepares beginning journalism students for "big things" as Advocate staff members. She also helps to sponsor Mummers.

Behind the scenes of every good play is the tireless work of a good director. MRS. ELLA MAE SHORT is the director of the fine productions at L.H.S.

Announcing Paul Scheele . . . who is addressing his public speaking class.

It's magazine time for English 15 students, Jerry Humphrey, John Havlicek, Roy Wythers, and Melvin Mumford.

Elsie Rokahr

From the language of Germany to the language of science jumps MISS VALERIA BONNELL, versatile German teacher and Science Club sponsor.

You'll feel more at ease "south of the border" if you'll first spend a semester or two in a class of MISS ELSIE ROKAHR, co-sponsor of the Junior Class.

Mais Oui—But yes! It's MISS MARY RUMBOLZ, French instructor and co-sponsor of the Mimes.

Foreign Affairs . . .

from border to border, from continent to continent, or from hemisphere to hemisphere, the learned individual moves with confidence.

All the "children" were happy when Miss Danese brought books about seals and teddy bears and choo-choos back from her trip to Mexico . . . Bill Foell, Bob Day, Dick Schilling, Dick Sheldon, Bill Campbell, and Ray Rider.

Amo, Amas, Amat . . . MISS MARIE CROSS teaches her students the essentials of the Latin language and its relation to English and finds time to help sponsor Doormen.

MISS TERESINA DANESE blends knowledge and charm to the pleasure of her "classes de Espanol" and the Peppers, whom she sponsors.

History students get a preview of college teaching methods in the classes of JOHN BRUCE, who hasn't been out of college so long himself. Mr. Bruce also lends support to the Debate Team.

A flashing smile and a helping hand are MRS. IRMA COOMBS' contributions to Mummers and her interesting and practical history classes.

History a dull subject? "Oh fudge!" Not in the classes of MRS. RUTH DODGE, who also helps sponsor the Sophomore Class and the citizenship committee.

"And another thing . . ." Prosecuting attorney, Burnette Noble, looks on while defending attorney, Bennett Martin, states his case to Judge Leonard Larson. Bailiff Del Harding places a restraining hand on defendant Dick Stoehr, whose fate is before jury-members, Les Schlesselman, Ray Sanden, and Bob Ficke.

Commentators . . .

study events, past and future, and judge the results before planning for the wonderful, peaceful tomorrows which everyone dreams of.

Tracing the routes of daring explorers to their famous discoveries is a frequent assignment in many history classes. Mrs. Ruth Dodge shows the way to Pat Nellis, John Schreiber, and Barbara Turner.

Room 321 could be referred to as a "personality factory" in connection with the character-building modern problems classes of MISS FLORENCE JENKINS, who is L.T.A. president.

Popular MRS. RUTH PINNEY helps to manage the National Honor Society for seniors and creates interest in her history classes by making historical characters realistic.

"As far as" . . . history teachers are concerned, MISS WILHELMINA JOHNSON is one of the best. She also touches on the dramatic by helping sponsor the Mimes, the sophomore drama club.

Dick Wieland and Carol Patterson can appreciate the work put into the American history reading reports displayed in Mrs. Ruth Pinney's room.

Interesting sidelights on current events, world, and American history are told by the head of the History Department, MISS CARRIE ROBERTS, who is co-sponsor of the Junior Class.

One of the largest organizations in the school, the Y-Teens, owes in part the satisfaction of its many members to MRS. ALICE UPDEGRAFT, whose cheerful ways help to guide them.

Miss Wilhelmina Johnson and Miss Mary Bardwell, on duty at the L.H.S. gate, admit Leonard Short and many others to the football games.

Food . . . is the subject of MRS. KATHERINE BENSON'S popular cooking classes. Mrs. Benson also co-sponsors Home Economics Club.

A modern artist, who imparts her talents to Art Club and her classes, is MISS GLADYS DANA.

Channel 8—The Homemaker on the Air—starring MISS ETH-EL ETMUND, her classes, and her Home Economics Club.

Art and Homemaking • •

the classes that change everyday tasks and duties into an art.

Lincoln High artists don't have to guess at realism; they get a first-hand view during their outdoor sketching classes.

"This is the way we wash our stove . . . so early in the morning!" Gordon Madsen, Bob Ficke, Bob Admire, and Bill Aldrich are members of Mrs. Katherine Benson's first-period cooking class.

MISS ELIZABETH FERGUSON gets right into things by sponsoring Art Club and Y-Teens and inaugurating a new class in arts and crafts.

The Hall Guards, traffic policemen of L.H.S., are on the "force" of MISS MILDRED KEMP, co-sponsor of both Home Economics Club and Student Council.

Three and three are six . . .
Thirty and thirty are sixty.
MRS. LAVINA DVORAK divides her time between mathematics and Peppers.

A lady who can point out all the angles is MISS EDITH ELLIS, mathematics teacher and head of the citizenship committee.

If you're wondering how the Home Room Representatives get so much done, page MISS RUTH HALL, who helps them through the year.

"Being a sponsor for the Senior Class and on several committees can really keep a person busy," as MISS GRACE McMAHON, mathematics teacher, will tell you.

"Can we afford it???" was the question most often put to MISS MILDRED WAIDE as financial advisor for the 1950 Links.

MISS JOSEPHINE WIBLE, head of the Mathematics Department, practices what she preaches and becomes well acquainted with club treasurers by auditing club books.

*Josephine Wible
Auditor, 1 and 2*

The Auditors . . .

subtract from possible confusion by dividing their talents between a multiplication of ideas and an addition to the general welfare.

"Keeping up with the Joneses" is always a hard task, but especially if the subject is mathematics and the Jones is MISS GERTRUDE JONES.

Ronald Barnes, carillonneur at First Plymouth Church, demonstrates his technique for one of the music appreciation classes.

Music . . .

for millions--almost every student is interested in band, orchestra, or vocal music as a career or merely as a very relaxing pastime.

When the call for lights, music, and action is heard at L.H.S. productions, BERNARD NEVIN, co-sponsor of Clef Club, is responsible for the music, as he directs the L.H.S. Orchestra.

The L.H.S. Band, a stand-out in the annual Band Day parade, makes its way past 13th and O Streets.

The music goes 'round and 'round and so does MISS DORTHEA GORE as she goes from her girls music groups to Clef Club, which she sponsors, to the golf course, which she also finds time for.

Wa-da-da-da-da-da HUGH RANGEER pulls a "hit" from his music library when he puts his Senior Choir through the paces of the "St. Louis Blues." Mr. Rangeler also sponsors Orpheons.

LYLE WELCH enlivens the football half-time period with the many formations of the L.H.S. Marching Band. Wherever music is needed, rallies, games, or Orpheons, Mr. Welch comes to the rescue.

The man behind the men . . . RALPH BEECHNER is L.H.S. athletic director. He also helps with L Club and the National Athletic Honor Society.

"Hale! Hale! the gang's all here." SAM HALE'S gang is the baseball team and his many physical education classes.

In case of accident please notify CARL MANTHEY, practical first aid and hygiene instructor and co-sponsor of the Science Club.

JACK GEIST and DON WEBER don't seem to be properly impressed with the energy being put forth by Gordon Madsen in a boys physical education class.

Health . . .

featuring sports of every kind, football, basketball, baseball, track, swimming, golf, tennis, and wrestling, makes for better athletes and citizens.

"Who's on first?" is no mystery in the classes of MISS HELEN JO MILLER, who also helps the Girls Athletic Association.

V-X-E-Z-H . . . MRS. MARY MAPES, the school nurse, has a language all her own when she gives each student the annual eye test.

Safety comes first with MISS ETHEL MURRAY and her safety committee. Miss Murray also lends her practical knowledge and pleasing personality to her hygiene and first aid classes.

"Seriously speaking," BILL PFEIFF really has the "know-how" when it comes to football wizardry and L Club activities.

HAROLD SCOTT'S chalk-talks are very effective, as his Reserve sports record clearly shows.

One picture no one takes special care to pose for is the very valuable X-ray photo. Dorothy Hartwig and Richard Amen watch Robert Myers as they wait their turns.

Always ready with a hand-out if it's your locker basket you want, is MRS. SEXTON in the girls gymnasium.

DAN THESMEYER gives equipment and encouragement to all boys out for sports.

The bouncing basketeers may be the first love of head basketball coach, LYLE WEYAND, but he finds time to be football line coach and maintain an active interest in all sports.

Audrey Sievert lets sail a mighty heave as Delores Carag, Sandra Reishus, Sharon Reed, Patty Ellis, and June Boyd look on approvingly.

The educational and decorative greenhouse is the pride and joy of MISS MARY BARDWELL, science teacher and horticulturist.

Not Gulliver's friends but the "little people" of the scientific world absorb the interest of MISS LUCY GEIGER, who also heads the Usherettes.

JAMES McALLISTER, the chemistry laboratory assistant, is always ready to lend a helping hand to lab students.

Science Department . . .

has its experimentation, test, and research laboratories.

Experiment 13 . . . Mr. Reel helps Jane Calhoun and Elizabeth Blazier. In the background are LeRoy Lengner, Elton Monismith, and John Hascoolidge.

"Reel . . . ly"—It's WINDLE REEL, popular chemistry teacher and Rifle Club sponsor.

From cows to classes is the jump made by farming enthusiast J. D. YOUNG, head of the Science Department, who also devotes his help to Science Club.

Do you want to learn about yourself and how you react and live? Then physiology, under the direction of MISS HELENE SCHEMEL, is the class for you.

"Way up" in 401 you'll find MRS. GLADYS TEMPLE, her biology classes, her Y-Teens, and her ever-interesting fish.

Whether you've lost something or found something, MRS. RUBY EVANS, who manages the bookroom, is the one to see.

Pies, not like Mother used to make . . . better! are served by MRS. HILDA KARGO and her cafeteria staff.

Always "the man on the job" is ALBERT LUEHR, head custodian, whose helping hands solve many school problems.

Maintenance Crews . . .

are needed in every organization to see that the program runs smoothly and that no last-minute difficulty can arise to disrupt the finished product.

Whether you're inquiring about African head-hunters or apple pie, MISS EMMA SNYDER can show you just the right book in the L.H.S. library.

MISS GUNDERMANN will get you if you don't watch out. And if you "skip out" she's sure to "find out."

Working together for an ever-better L.H.S. library are MRS. MABEL SWARD, regular library assistant, and MRS. ANN CHAMBERLIN, who substituted for Miss Snyder during the first semester.

Prop Men . . .

carpenters, electricians, and mechanics work day after day to make certain that all properties work smoothly and--

It may be a dirty job, but machine shop workers, Paul Hustig, John Weers, and Hollis Jennings, get results.

This isn't the house that Jack built—it's the structure built by the woodwork classes at the fairgrounds . . . Roy Alley, Lupe Damian, Cornelius Kuiper, Gilbert Sexton, Bill Rosenthal, and Don Krieger.

GUILFORD BURNHAM'S auto mechanics class can open the door to smooth driving, while his Doormen open the door to L.H.S. productions.

Carpentry and riflery is a combination to the liking of CLARENCE EVANS.

The plan may look complicated, but it is perfectly clear to electricity teacher and Radio Club co-sponsor, CHESTER GAUSMAN.

You can repair, drive, and take a picture of your merry Oldsmobile, all under the direction of ORVILLE HEDRICK.

ARVID JOHNSON'S interest concerns a variety of subjects but centers on the Doormen and his mechanical drafting classes.

To help you "encompass" a successful career, ALVIN MILLER, Supervisor of Industrial Arts, teaches mechanical drafting.

All "would-be" printers make the classes of JAMES WALLACE their headquarters.

Oh shoot! Rifle Club co-sponsor, CLAUDE WINGROVE, gives valuable training in shooting and in the machine shop.

Lines and more lines—but all in the right places—are drawn by Jerry Davis, Gene Cotter, Bill Clinton, Bob Brown, Don Block, Bob Barrett, and Dick Anderson in a mechanical drafting class.

--at the same time, mechanical draftsmen and student printers delve into the detailed paper work to discover better methods for presentation of them.

Sparks get in your eyes . . . but not with protective masks as modeled by welders, Bob Finley, Fred Beamis, Pete Nelson, Don Wunderlich, and Jack Feldt.

Eldon Park

Honors! Awards! Recognitions!

Suspense is in the air every spring concerning the announcement of the honor awards: Harry Sidney Dobbins Award, Cup Girl, National Honor Society, Altrusa Career Conference, and the Scholarship Key.

A fine record in all phases of school activities has been made by the winner of the Harry Sidney Dobbins Award, presented annually by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sidney Dobbins for 38 years. Having received recognition in scholarship, athletics, and school citizenship, Eldon Park, this year's winner, has two letters in each of three major sports . . . football, track, and wrestling. He has been given 92 citizenship ratings and has maintained a scholarship average of 1.26 while attaining membership in National Honor Society and Student Council and serving as a class officer.

A small but lively black-haired girl is this year's Cup Girl. Although Mary Jones has been busy with her two majors and four minors, she has found time to earn four G.A.A. letters in baseball, football, basketball, and salesmanship. Mary is a member of National Honor Society and has been on the honor roll every semester.

Mary Jones

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY: Row 4: Barnett, vice-president; Ayars, Hagen, Hamilton, Boyde, Doty, Boswell, Hale, Fitch. Row 3: Calhoun, Brown, Ginsburg, Barger, Doole, Heldenbrand, Crawford, Anderson, Folmer, secretary-treasurer. Row 2: Blazier, Goodding, Bartunek, Hays, Chubbuck, Davis, Clingerman, Dorn, Bell. Row 1: Church, Ford, Beamis, Berry, Cadwallader, Hancock, Epp, Hansen, Heuertz.

Jean Davis

Those seniors ranking in the top 15% of their class in citizenship, scholarship, and leadership are chosen to be members of the National Honor Society. Seventeen of this year's 72 members were eligible to take a N.H.S. test for scholarships and awards ranging from $20 to $400.

Many career women will undoubtedly be created with the help of the Lincoln chapter of the Altrusa Club. The twenty-five girls who were selected were given aptitude and university tests and were guided by well-known personages in many professions.

Each year the school presents a gold key to the senior who has maintained the highest scholarship average. This year's recognition goes to Jean Davis, who has received a grade of 1 in 120 academic hours. Her interest is in all phases of school life.

This year's Regents' Scholarship winner is John Thomas, while Wesley Boswell, Jean Davis, William Doole, Paul Laase, Robert Peterson, and Harriett Wenke are alternates.

Making up committees was but one of the jaunty junior officers' duties. Kathryn Crawford, president; Allen Christiansen, secretary; Allan Anderson, vice-president; and Agnes Anderson, treasurer; guided their class during the fall semester.

As sponsors of the Junior Class, Miss Elsie Rokahr and Miss Carrie Roberts are very attentive at tryouts for the junior play.

The Junior Class chose its colors from this chart displayed by its second semester officers: Don Becker, treasurer; Douglas Wilcox, president; Kathryn Crawford, vice-president; and Peggy Dewey, secretary.

Row 1: Polly Ackerson, Ionna Adams, Hester Ahlemeyer, Robert Albers, Jack Albert, Joe Alexis, Ed Allerton, Roy Alley, Jacquelyn Amen, Agnes Anderson, Allan Anderson, Lois Anderson.

Society and Service . . .

Whenever someone around Lincoln High mentions an organization that is active in school, out-of-school, social, and service activities, chances are that this is the Y-Teens, Y.W.C.A.-affiliated high school organization.

One of the most valuable meetings is held each year to introduce Y-Teens to the new pupils of Lincoln High and to reintroduce it to the upperclassmen. The program shows Lincoln High girls the various activities and committees that function with Y-Teens. The committees range from the social committee, which plans parties and social affairs for the club, to the public affairs committee, which helps in public and world service by way of Y-Teens.

There are also other committees: publicity, membership, program, and music, which help to develop a well rounded program for any high school girl.

Their two popular "Candy Castles," which they sponsor on play nights and Joy Night, keep Y-Teens busy, as many contribute both their time and candy.

The winter Snowball, which is not limited to Y-Teens, is a formal dance and one of the highlights of the Y-Teen social season. They also sponsor a mother-daughter banquet and the popular fall Calico Capers.

The Y-Teens in co-operation with the Y.W.C.A. place a World Fellowship Fund box shaped like a world in the lunch room for student contributions. This fund benefits the needy abroad. Another project of the Y-Teens was to send candy bars to French children.

They also decorated napkins with Thanksgiving motifs for the Orthopedic Hospital. Activities such as this are the rule, rather than the exception, with Y-Teens.

Y-Teens can really be called an organization which is social, educational, helpful, and recreational for the girls who wear the Y-Teen blue and white membership pin.

"We can show him our depth of feeling"—sighs Alison Faulkner to a very impressed Pat Nellis. Bob Wells plays the bored brother in the "Date With Judy" skit.

Bacalls and Bogarts . . .

It's "on with the show" in room 326 every other Thursday when the Mummeters hold their meetings. Junior and senior dramatic aspirants become members of this club by try-out. After being initiated, each member adds his cog to the club wheel by participating in the plays, skits, and readings which are presented at the meetings.

This year there were two especially dramatic moments. A radio version of a spine-chilling scene from "Arsenic and Old Lace" was aired over sound into the waiting ears of the enthralled Mummer membership.

Another dramatic episode was an amusing excerpt from "A Date With Judy." Judy and her star-struck adolescent friend plotted their dramatic careers with much more specific plans than those exercised by most Mummeters.

Mummeters is one of the largest clubs of Lincoln High School. Such a large membership enables the club to present a play for the general public each year. This is the real high point of the year for the Mummeters.

This play differs from other L.H.S. productions in that every phase of the presentation is directed by the members of the club. After a play is chosen by discriminating Mummeters, the difficult task of choosing a cast from the large sea of talent begins. Remaining Mummeters assume direction, back stage, publicity, property, and assembly duties. The whole membership works for the ultimate goal, a successful production, as was aptly proved by the delightful comedy, "Heaven Can Wait."

Boogie and Beethoven . . .

There's music in the air when the Orpheons get together on the first and third Wednesdays of the month. Tryouts for this club are open to musical juniors and seniors at the beginning of each semester. These tryouts consist of classical or semi-classical numbers performed before the officers and sponsors of the club who act as judges.

The club members are not all staid and long-haired musicians. Their abilities come under the violin, saxophone, piano, vocal, and harmonica departments. All of them lend their talents to the agreeable task of entertaining their fellow club members in varied programs of classical and modern music. Occasionally there is a guest performer.

A relatively large number of juniors and seniors belong to this club. Each member is required to take part in the program once each semester. This provides valuable experience in performing before an appreciative audience.

Just as the Mummers have their play, the Orpheons have their annual assembly. It is always one of the assembly high lights of the year. A committee is chosen to originate an interesting plan for the assembly. The best and most suitable talent is selected from the club to work toward the presentation of an always entertaining musical assembly.

RIFLE CLUB: Suspense! Don Longinaker, Leo Manke, Tom Larsen, Don Dischner, Louie Laflin, John Thomas, and Mike Lawlor await the results as Mr. Reel scores a target sheet.

Ready! Aim! Fire! . . . Bull's Eye (you hope)!

These sportsmen and women are learning all about rifles, their handling and their care, while having a maximum of enjoyment as they learn.

Target practice makes up a major portion of the club's program. Perfection is the keynote here. Much emphasis is also put on the handling of the gun and safety precautions while handling, storing, and using the guns.

The motto for this club might well be "Fun while learning," for even though a gun is a serious thing, learning how to use it can be made to be both educational and entertaining.

Apprentices in Drama and Music . . .

Ah, to act! Those sophomores whose interest in the stage is accompanied by a flair for the dramatic are admitted by tryout to Mimes. During their meetings, young actors and actresses breeze their way through the world's dramatic literature. With this brilliant beginning, it's no wonder that Lincoln High's dramatic productions remain on such a high level.

Also exclusively for sophomores is the Clef Club. It is open by tryout to those who interpret and appreciate music, both serious and semi-classical. Musical virtuosos, junior version, become veteran performers by making sweet music for each other at bi-weekly meetings. Variety is the keynote to the programs presented.

CLEF CLUB: Fifth Row: Crandall, Gates, Bramwell, Riley, Pauley, Norris, Schmoker, Giebelhaus, Johnson, Joyce, president; Moss, Cloud. Fourth Row: Novicoff, Good, Martin, Larson, Dosek, Carveth, Blue, N. Stanley, Sick, M. Stanley. Third Row: Schwabauer, Carlson, Jewett, Hicks, Kimmel, sergeant-at-arms; Hancock, Nelsky, Wilcox, treasurer; Roxberg, Ernst, Hagan. Second Row: Doty, Jeannoutot, Shelledy, Scott, vice-president; Unterseher, Peterson, Coppinger, Davis, Splichal, Miller, McCauley, Swindle. First Row: McMullen, Clark, Reger, Finley, secretary; Coffman, treasurer; Hartman, vice-president; Robertson, sergeant-at-arms; McKie, president; Usher, Beideck, Sienknecht.

The Tongue, the Pen, and the Camera . . .

"There are two sides to every story!" This might well be the motto of L.H.S. debaters as they discuss the question, "Resolved, the President of the United States should be elected by direct vote of the people."

The Lincoln High teams tied for second place at the Missouri Valley Debate Tournament and were rated excellent. They also rated high at the Wesleyan Tournament for both boys and girls.

Beginning and advanced debaters in these and interclass tournaments gained both experience in debating and an understanding of the question.

If you feel a drift of inspired air issuing from room 103 every other Monday, it is the glow from the assemblage of burning creative minds at a Writers Club meeting. Although the main project of the club is the publication of a booklet of original writings called The Scribe, much is to be gained from the interesting programs presented throughout the year.

Push pull, click click! No, 'tisn't a fancy pencil nor the buttons on your television set. It's the Camera Club at their picture party, snapping the sightly scenery.

Camera Club members know what fun you can have learning the dark room secrets about developing a good picture.

These photo fanciers also sponsor the various snapshot displays that appear in the trophy cases.

CAMERA CLUB: Standing: Bolton, secretary; Brakhage, Krauter, Hogg. Seated: Tiangco, Brown, Bush, treasurer; Hancock.

FOREIGN LANGUAGE CLUB: Fifth Row: Burnett, Shottenkirk, Simodynes, Davis, Larson, Morgan, D. L. Borgaard, Singer, Johnson, Sommers. Fourth Row: Hemphill, Anderson, Chamberlin, Priefert, Hartwig, Hancock, Hosfield, Sackett, Hereth, Lundy, Stanley. Third Row: Jesse, Cast, Christensen, Keishus, Benson, Bergquist, Baldwin, Hill, Eastman, Imlay, Hogan, Schmoker. Second Row: Weichel, Arledge, Erway, Weatherhogg, Clements, Kiely, Richardson, Mann, Walt, Maser. First Row: Pont, Faulkner, Hompes, Hallam, Zinneman, Beutel, secretary-treasurer; D. D. Borgaard, vice-president; Langhus, Mueller, president; Barnds, Pickett.

Foreign Affairs . . .

A newcomer to a large school can sometimes be very lonesome; but not so with the new Foreign Language Club, which has been accepted whole-heartedly by students and teachers.

The students studying French, Latin, German, and Spanish meet with the other students who share their particular interest, and all meet together at least once a month.

At the initial meeting, a Spanish trio, a French musical skit, Latin songs, and the German version of "Little Red Riding Hood" were featured.

At the Christmas meeting a story of a maiden who saw the Christmas scene was given by the French group. The Spanish group showed a manger scene and explained its meaning, while the German and Latin groups sang Christmas carols in their respective languages.

The Foreign Language Club has helped pupils taking one language learn something about the people in other lands, their modes of living, their language, and their customs. Though it has been in existence only a few months, it has proved to be a very entertaining and educational addition to the list of clubs.

Getting acquainted with a newcomer can be fun; just ask any Foreign Language Club member.

BUSINESS CLUB: Fourth Row: Dwyer, Tave, Whitted, Turley, Stephenson, Hobbs. Third Row: Donna Brakhage, Dorothy Brakhage, Krauter, Brown, Tonkinson, Thoreson, secretary; Winter, vice-president; Gadd. Second Row: Wymore, Keller, Franks, Upham, treasurer; McClure, Tiango, Benedetto. First Row: DeWald, membership committee chairman; Tracy, music committee chairman; Bartu, treasurer; Tipton, president, secretary; publicity committee chairman; Sell, president; Cumming, vice-president; Saddoris, program chairman; Mills, president pro tem.

Business and Pleasure . . .

The old adage, "You can't mix business with pleasure," may be right in some cases, but the Business Club is a very definite exception to that rule.

"The Commercial Progress of Television," "Various Types of Typewriters," and demonstrations on the newest filing devices were some of the topics presented to the club this year.

The lighter side of the club's agenda included a program of magic tricks, various music acts, and even a presentation of "Arsenic and Old Lace" over the sound system.

The Business Club is truly an example of how to confound the old adage successfully.

Good news for all Lincoln High boys! The Hi-Y has been reorganized and is finer and more interesting than ever.

The Hi-Y is sponsored by the Y.M.C.A. for all boys of high school age. It has a whole roster of activities that all boys enjoy and participate in, all the way from table tennis to pool.

Good sportsmanship and good fun are the keynotes of this organization.

Members of Hi-Y, banded together to promote fellowship, health, and character, are living proof of the adaptability and desirability of new organizations at Lincoln High School.

At Home... In the Galleries . . .

Enjoying themselves while learning the finer arts of home economics is one of the many purposes of the members of the versatile Home Economics Club.

The club is versatile because members not only discover more about homemaking, but they also take trips to different places of business to study their operation.

The Home Economics Club really offers the girls of Lincoln High a well-rounded program including fun, social activities, and information about community affairs.

Past and present artists absorb the interest of ambitious Art Club members. The works of past masters draw admiring glances and envious approval while embryo Picassos take brush and oils in hand to paint their route to a successful future as commercial or aesthetic artists.

Speakers are invited to give these aspirants new ideas and tips for their painting and sketching efforts.

Everyone submits a sample of his talent for the annual Art Club exhibit and participates in the Christmas party and the trip to Morrill Hall.

ART CLUB: Third Row: Kruger, Simodynes, Morey, Reigert, Pauley, treasurer; Knudson, Leshner, Whitworth, Clore. Second Row: Coffman, Beynon, Dosek, Nelson, Hauptman, Frailey, vice-president; Baker, Broady, Carpender, secretary. First Row: Olivetti, Enyeart, Whitmore, Warren, president; Ramey, vice-president and president; Luff, secretary; Hamilton, Halpine, Botsford.

SCIENCE CLUB: Second Row: Pagel, Doty, Bush, DeFord, Harden, Vogel, Davis, Strohm, Sohl, president; Eddy, vice-president. First Row: Joyner, treasurer; Alexis, Scheerer, Burgess, Whitlock.

In the Laboratory... Before the Public . . .

What is a cathode ray tube? How can you make hydrogen? What is Science Club?

Finally, a question to be answered! Science Club is the group who knows about those other things.

Different scientific committees within the club explain some of the wonders of science at meetings held twice a month.

In this way the members are given a peek at the secrets of science and a clearer view of the fascinating, mysterious scientific world.

D.E.A.'s have fun learning to work! D.E.A. is the distributive education association, a curriculum and an organization. Anyone in the curriculum may join the club.

What do they do? D.E.A. meets before school. Business people sometimes speak and give tips on the business world and salesmanship.

Movies give examples of the work. Discussions help solve sales problems they may have.

D.E.A. helps build the proper attitudes so necessary to success in dealing with the public.

D.E.A.: Standing: Wassung, Sundeen, president; Pillard, vice-president; Morey, Opp, Johnson, Meyer, Daharsh, Thompson. Seated: Campbell, Newcombe.

Behind the Curtain . . .

Courtesy! Courtesy! That's their cry! C-O-U-R-T-E-S-Y! They are the citizenship committee.

This year the committee promoted an extensive campaign for courtesy. Posters were distributed, slogans coined, and announcements made to remind everyone that courtesy is the best policy.

Lincoln High students were encouraged to join the community in climbing the courtesy ladder. Step by step they undertook consideration, obedience, understanding, respect, thoughtfulness, and so on up to the top.

Brilliant red wagons and screaming sirens aren't necessary for Lincoln High's safety committee. Members of this committee work competently and quietly without them.

Safety devices are checked by this committee in halls, shops, classrooms, and around the building.

The responsibilities include stairway directions, fire extinguishers, shop safety precautions, fire exit directions, and the parking lot maintenance. These safety supervisors make L.H.S. a safe place to be.

Assembly committee members do more than choose the entertainment and announce the program for L.H.S. assemblies.

They set the stage and put up the microphone if it is needed. Like true hosts and hostesses, they introduce speakers to the audiences and stand near entrances and exits to welcome visitors.

Assembly committee helps all it can to make L.H.S. assemblies enjoyable to the performers and audience alike.

Lowell, Mardis, Hock, Knopp, Austin, five of the many safety committee members, provide a home economics room with fire preventive blankets.

MOVIE OPERATORS: Standing: Smith, Ficke, Boukather, Hamilton, Zook, Mosher, Nielsen, Hackstadt, Harrison, Towle, Skinner, Dischner, Lemon, Mook. Seated: Mr. Cavett, Noble, head operator; Schaaf, clerical assistant.

Happy history students plus room 306! It all adds up to this. Movie operators are showing history classes a film.

Two movie operators are stationed in 306 each period. They receive a complete education as they show films to classes in all departments of the school.

Movie operators are essential to the growing visual education program.

Can L.H.S. make available occupational information and aptitude tests for seniors? Is an all-senior testing program and career conference possible?

How can junior high pupils be helped in registering for high school? Would a newcomers' club help overcome the problems of newcomers? Members of the guidance committee discuss these types of questions.

When L.H.S. alumni receive press recognition, the guidance committee sends congratulations to the successful graduates.

GUIDANCE COMMITTEE: Standing: Mr. Hackman, Mr. Burnham, Miss Gundermann, Mrs. Salyards, Mr. Wallace, Smith, Hunt. Seated: Doty, Pierson, Goodding, Keim, Hetherington, Moran, Miss Weatherby.

DOORMEN: Third Row: Boswell, Lott, Hamilton, Bailey, Spahn, Dewey, Francis, J. Hale. Second Row: Nielsen, Bowen, Vanderslice, Litzenberg, Jennings, Start, B. Hale, Rogers. Seated: Doole, Fitch, Miller, Barker, Kysar, Purchase, Goede, Myers.

USHERETTES: Second Row: Tonkinson, Wight, Laase, Doran, Beeman, Glade, Childers, Stanard, Tatman, Clark, Murray, Sims. First Row: Whitfield, Thoreson, Leybold, Hartwig, Reishus, Martin, Dean, Overgaard, Arms, Sittner, Asmus, Hansen.

CHOIR: Fourth Row: Montgomery, Wood, Weber, manager; Carpenter, Miles, Harrington, Dischner, Dunklau, Russell, manager; Noble. Third Row: Mallory, Bartunek, Davis, Crabtree, Wagner, Johns, president; Wiederspan, Anstine, Holtgrewe, secretary; Barnett, secretary; Hoover, Colhapp. Second Row: Kolb, Jackson, Rodwell, Hammond, Jouvenat, Bell, Lieurance, Hetherington, Slagle, Kissler, Miller, Brakhage, Hart. First Row: Mr. Rangler, director; Ginsburg, accompanist; Heuertz, Hansen, Coryell, Moore, Beamis, Kendle, Church, vice-president; Winchester, Miller.

Singing Seniors . . .

Jerry Ginsburg packs tons of talent into ten fingers whether he accompanies or entertains Lincoln high students.

Singing their way through their senior year, the members of the Senior Choir find understanding and enjoyment in music. A great deal is accomplished by the talented members chosen through tryouts held at the end of each semester for seniors with singing aspirations and abilities.

This year's choir season was started with a group of contemporary American songs. This program was presented at three junior high schools, at the Nebraska State Teachers Convention, and in the L.H.S. auditorium at assemblies and at a vesper concert. Members practiced enthusiastically for this program, which included their popular rendition of "The St. Louis Blues".

A predominately religious atmosphere was apparent when the always impressive Christmas vesper concert was presented in an aura of candlelight and solemnity.

The next and biggest project was the navigation of the "H.M.S. Pinafore" which they steered smoothly into the school auditorium on March 3 and 4 with the L.H.S. Orchestra also on deck. The rest of the year was devoted to music for the Easter assembly, another vesper concert, a memorial program, and the awe-inspiring commencement exercises.

CHOIR: Fourth Row: Knee, vice-president; Laase, Wassung, Krieger, Boukather, Rogers, Otto, Monismith, Srb, Phelan, Reinhardt. Third Row: Ballou, Bartizal, Manke, Laffin, Fitch, Shonerd, Olsen, Loudon, Burns, Trabert, Boeke, Knaub. Second Row: von Bergen, Mills, Korn, president; Goodding, Reckewey, Unger, Remington, Fischer, Dean, Hays, Gunderson, Bean. First Row: Kinsinger, Lebsack, Ford, Sell, Moran, Deppen, Reed, Murphy, Keim, McWilliams, Tipton.

"Let All My Life Be Music", sing the eight musical misses of the Girls Octet. The members of this group are chosen in the spring and sing together throughout the following year. This year the octet is composed entirely of seniors. They probably entertain more frequently than any other music group of Lincoln High.

The members of the Boys Quartet enjoy singing in four-part harmony. They also entertain at various civic clubs and are especially remembered for their caroling in the halls during the Christmas season.

Both of these groups sing at the Christmas vesper concert, participate in Joy Night, and appear several times during the year in assemblies.

OCTET: Lieurance, accompanist; Hansen, Rodwell, Bartunek, von Bergen, Reckewey, Unger, Korn, Trabert.

Canaries and Crooners . . .

With their striking navy blue uniforms and inspired singing, the Junior Girls Glee is a delight to the school. These songbirds capture their audiences wherever they are heard.

Their masculine counterparts, sophomore and junior crooners, blend their voices to make the Boys Glee one of Lincoln High's outstanding music organizations. They turn in fine and frequent performances during the year. Both groups sing at school assemblies, vesper concerts, Joy Night, the Spring Festival, and numerous other places throughout the city.

Smaller sized songbirds sing in the Sophomore Girls Glee in preparation for bigger things to come. This year there are so many capable singers in the sophomore class that the glee is divided into two groups, meeting at different periods during the day. Both groups learn the same music and make their appearances as one body.

SOPHOMORE GIRLS GLEE: Fifth Row: Moss, Hartman, Owen, Johnson, Durham, Bramwell, Stanley, Farquhar, Fulmer, Fox. Fourth Row: Wacker, Sienknecht, Stanley, Jones, Valencia, Young, Wilcox, Carlson, Reger, Peterson. Third Row: Nefsky, Sims, Clark, Wagner, McClure, Jesse, Myers, Blue, Best, Coppinger. Second Row: Dill, McCauley, Sougey, Gandara, Halpine, Ortiz, Dunn, Davis, Bronstein. First Row: Farr, Finley, Beideck, vice-president; Swindle, secretary-treasurer; Miss Gore, Russell, librarian; Martin, librarian; Good, president; Usher, Roxberg, Kehler.

SOPHOMORE GIRLS GLEE: Fifth Row: Lesh, Stanton, Somerheiser, Pauley, Gates, Joyce, Broady, Owens, Dosek, Larson. Fourth Row: Stiegelman, Weber, Sackett, Crandall, Fischer, George, Kitchen, Richardson, Sporn, Hereth. Third Row: Bergquist, Novicoff, Hicks, Ernst, Kimmel, Splichal, Schuck, Wight, Pierce. Second Row: Hergert, Schmidt, Pearce, Lux, Fritchie, Jens, Correll, Bates, Murray, Doty. First Row: Jewett, Hallam, Sommers, librarian; Unterseher, accompanist; Beynon, secretary-treasurer; Shipps, president; Meyer, vice-president; Day, librarian; Shaw, Coffman, Lubke.

TWIRLERS: Marilyn Lehr, Lois Rohrig, Marilyn Lane, Karen Clingerman, Lynne Morgan, Jo Ann Vlach, Vera Vosika, Dorothy Haith, Karma Kimball. Kneeling: Peggy Keith.

Strike Up the Band . . .

When Mr. Lyle Welch raises his baton before the Lincoln High School Band, he is striking up one of the 12 best bands in the state. This year's group of red-and-black-clad musicians has come through hour upon hour of drilling on intricate and taxing routines with flying colors. Cooperation is the secret of their success.

It's like a game of "follow the leader". In this case, the leaders are the graceful, high-stepping majorette, the three colorful flag bearers, and the six vivacious baton twirlers. The band is a leader in keeping school spirit high at home football and basketball games. The bleachers are a picture of unified motion as L.H.S. fans swing and clap to the lilting rhythms.

But that is not the end of the tale. An equal amount of enthusiasm goes into the rehearsing and performing of classical, modern, and popular music for symphonic band. Equally colorful are the school assemblies and programs given various other places in the city during the spring semester.

Highlighting this year's band season were Band Day, sponsored by the University of Nebraska, the Christmas parade, vespers, and spring concerts given for the junior high schools.

BAND: Fourth Row: Spahn, Richards, Eurich, Raper, Taft, Madden, Guild. Third Row: Brendle, second lieutenant; Bieberstein, Honnens, first sergeant; McKie, Gray, Parrish, Brinkworth, Shrader, Danek H. Cloud, C. Cloud, Rogers, captain; Michaud, Sorensen, Mülle. Second Row: Anderson, Doole, Metcalf, Milner, Hobbs, Heileman, McMahon, first lieutenant; Barker, Miller, Locker, Peterson. First Row: Jordan, Wilson, Wishnow, Murphy, Dreamer, Mackey, Templeton, Jensen, Petersen, Hale, Nelson, Lindholm, Upham.

Music, Maestro! . . .

Well, hi diddle diddle, and tune up the fiddle! The fiddlers and horn blowers of the Lincoln High School Orchestra may never have seen a cow jumping over the moon, but miracles do happen every day when students, executing their utmost musical skill, play sounds which emerge in blended harmony. They have long since learned that "Practice Makes Perfect" is more than just a song, and during their daily rehearsals, directed by the exceptionally fine and competent musicianship of Mr. Bernard Nevin, these future symphony members gain invaluable musical knowledge and experience.

The spirit of this orchestra is invincible.

They will attempt anything from the symphonies of Mozart and Haydn and dramatic Wagnerian overtures to "White Christmas" and "Embraceable You". Two favorites in a modern mode are "Fiddle Faddle" and "Slaughter on Tenth Avenue".

Samples of their high quality can be heard at plays, vesper concerts, and appreciation concerts for junior high and grade school students. At the beginning of the second semester they concentrate on orchestral score of the opera given by the Senior Choir. All agree that the final coordination between singers and orchestra is well worth the effort.

Basketball spirit is aided by the rousing fight songs and the popular hit tunes played by the L.H.S. Pep Band.

Not another caption! Every detail of the book has to be checked by editor Marjorie Moran.

Managing editor Harriett Wenke can explain her filing methods perfectly—but she is the only one who can!

“Authors” . . .

When the curtain rings down on the final presentation of The Links 1950, answering the call for “Authors!” will be the six collaborators who pooled their talents to write a story Lincoln High School will remember.

Six sterling seniors who make up the Links Board are aided by a staff of writers, artists, typists, and photographers in matching the pieces which make up the puzzle of high school life.

Work begins on the L.H.S. annual each spring when the Board for the following year is chosen. Wide-eyed and wondrous board members meet the fall with initial planning for the theme, tone, cover, size, and content of the book, deciding on each by a majority vote.

“Just the man you want to see!” Business manager Leonard L. Larson guards all the money connected with The Links.

Super-salesmen (standing) Wilcox, Lutz, Wright, Mosher, Cumming, Wilson, Hickey, Carter, Havlicek, and Bailey wait to check their books while McGreer, Lane, Trabert, Farnham, Sommers, and Anderson fill theirs in.

Photographers deluxe! Dave Hill, Bob Davey, Bill Doole, Leo Manke, and Mark Crawford.

To match the little black negatives to the little white people is the tedious job of formal photography editor Phyllis Chubbuck, but she can always bring forth a smile.

Not very trusting are writers Sally Lieurance, Shirley Murphy, and Bennett Martin, as they watch their stories being typed by typists Marlene Stroh and Rita Dorn.

Learning some pointers from the "know-all" yearbook guide are writers Marshall Kushner and Mike Lawlor, artists Jeannette Coffman and Phyl Dosek, and writer Connie Gordon.

Cramming a whole year into so few pages is a terrific task. This year is an important year! It is the beginning of a lot of wonderful times for the sophomores and juniors. It is the end of many things for the seniors, who will step into an adult world.

It is an important year for every L.H.S. student . . . The Links 1950 is a record for every L.H.S. student . . . The "authors" hope they have captured this year for these students.

Biography editor Janice Brown has seen everyone's senior picture.....about fifty times!

Comparing past yearbooks are the helpful sponsors, Miss Irene Martin, Miss Elizabeth Grone, and Miss Mildred Waide.

Meet the Press . . .

"The new, better, All-American" Advocate is delivered every other Wednesday featuring adequate and novel coverage of world, national, local, and school affairs of interest to Mr. Average Q. Student.

Many innovations proclaim this "new" paper. "Penney's Pointers," a column giving teen-age advice; "Comps and Comments," a channel bringing letters to the editor before the public; and "Senior Sketches" made their debuts during the first semester.

Second semester's staff kept up the trend and added a "Sports Chatter" column and "Between the Bookends," synopses of library books. For the first time, "Static" had five editors to promote originality.

Checking last week's work are Martha Lee Miller, Jean Thomas, and Marguerite Jaekle, while Ginny Pierson and Connie Gordon prepare next week's stories.

"But Fair Tomorrow" . . .

LHSTV brings you the weather forecast for December 9, via Walter Howard. "Cloudy, but fair tomorrow," says Uncle Walter, as he looks at the weather prophet, a mysterious and seemingly useless gadget introduced in the junior play.

Correct prediction! For all is a little cloudy when Babs Howard, a conscientious teen-ager, sponsors a bazaar and a romance at the same time.

Fairer weather results when Uncle Walter, an understanding bachelor, writes a history theme for Randy, the star basketball player, so he can play in the big game. Things are brighter when the gallstones of Gethsemane, matter-of-fact maid, are returned unsold from the bazaar. When Muriel, gossipy little ticket-saleswoman, relies on the appearance of a movie star to draw a crowd to the bazaar, it's a good thing that pilot Philip Ward is really a movie star incognito. It's also a big relief when Louise, pretty older sister, and Ralph Mason, overly intellectual history teacher, patch up their romantic troubles.

A calm dignified mother and a very best friend to confide in help bring "But Fair Tomorrow" to its successful conclusion.

A weather prophet surely comes in handy!

George Strassler, as a popular movie actor, captures the attention of teensters Nancy Hemphill and Anita Daniels; but Jack Rogers, as an intellectual suitor, captures the affections of Nancy Mueller.

"Not so hot!" Paul Scheele grimaces as his mother, Josephine Shottenkirk, bathes his sore arm. Natasha Stepanek, the sarcastic maid, and his girl, Pat Nellis, supervise under the direction of Ann Lundy.

There are after-the-play hi-jinks as David Meisenholder, Annie Lutz, Bob Cumming, Agnes Anderson, and Mickey Walt taste the cake made for the play's bazaar.

"I Remember Mama" . . .

Kathryn Forbes' unforgettable characters lived again October 21 and 22 on the stage of L.H.S. for two memorable evenings of entertainment when the senior class presented "I Remember Mama."

Katrin, "the dramatic one," as Papa puts it, tells the story of her family, a poor but a very secure family, with an alleged bank account.

She recalls the home on Steiner Street in San Francisco, where her sister, Christine, her brother, Nels, and her little sister, Dagmar, with her adored cat, Uncle Elizabeth, became acquainted with classic literature through the inspired reading of their proud but penniless boarder, Mr. Hyde.

Margaret Korn, as Aunt Jenny, has the nerve to defy Wayne Miles, as Uncle Chris! Twyla Carlson, Aunt Sigred; and Roland Wagner, Arne, look doubtful.

She remembers shy Aunt Trina, blunt Aunt Sigred, domineering Aunt Jenny, and old, fear-inspiring Uncle Chris, whose money is all spent helping crippled people. But first and foremost in her memory is Mama, "the practical one," admired and respected by all.

Surely if those who produced it on Broadway or in Hollywood could have seen the senior class' presentation of "I Remember Mama," they would agree that the excellent cast succeeded in making it one of Lincoln High's outstanding performances.

The kitchen table is the center of attention for Corinne Clore, Dorothy Schiller; Bob Nelson, Mr. Hyde; and Mark Crawford, the messenger boy. Seated are nurses, Mary Hancock and Janis Trabert.

"Heaven Can Wait" . . .

Tony Abbott and Julia Farnsworth, co-workers in crime, have reason to look worried as they are questioned by the Inspector, played by Jim Bahm. Joe's friends, Bette Logan and Max Levene, aren't above suspicion either.

Heavenly days! Just how much can happen to one soul!

The Mummies play, "Heaven Can Wait," showed the audience how an innocent mistake can cause a person more trouble than is imaginable, even if the person is supposedly dead and the mistake is made by an angel!

George Strassler played the harassed and frequently confused Joe Pendleton, a prize fighter with a mania for playing the saxophone.

A heavenly messenger, 7013, portrayed by David Meisenholder, took Joe's soul to heaven, thinking that the plane he was piloting was going to crash. But alas, the heavenly messenger had made a mistake; Joe had sixty more years left on earth.

Nurse Alison Faulkner and Housekeeper Mary Lou Lull discuss their master's capriciousness while the workman, Ray Sanden, and the maids, Anita Daniels and Bea Beutel, prepare a rowing machine to humor his gymnastic whims.

A bullet wound seems to bother managers, Morse Weisgurt and Marvin Friedman, and the doctor, Donald Kitchen, more than it bothers its owner, Joe Pendleton, alias Murdock.

Going back to earth as Joe Pendleton was out of the question. Max Levene, Joe's fight manager, played by Morse Weisgurt, not knowing of the mistake, had Joe's body cremated!

Mr. Jordan, the heavenly gate-keeper, portrayed by Bob Cumming, tried to remedy the situation by giving him the body of a murdered man, the former banker, Jonathan Farnsworth.

As Banker Farnsworth, Joe not only kept himself "in the pink," but he squandered the money that would have gone to his "murderers," Julia, his wife, and Tony Abbott, his secretary, played by Jane Calhoun and Bob Wells, who were amazed at the sudden change.

To complicate matters even more, Joe fell in love with Bette Logan, played by Snooky

A heavenly court in the advertising assembly featured devils, Lehr, Watson, and Patterson; angels, Beal, Colbert, Johnson, Walt, Korn, Lieurance, Lebsack, Langhus, and Mueller. Jean Davis, the bailiff; Natasha Stepanek, the judge; and Josephine Shottenkirk, St. Peter; heard witnesses David Meisenholder, Judy Wiebe, and George Strassler.

Coryell. This in itself wouldn't be too bad, except for the fact that the real Farnsworth wronged Bette's father.

The story might have ended here, had not the indignant Farnsworth made such noisy protests up in heaven that his body be vacated immediately. So, to keep peace and quiet for all concerned, Mr. Jordan gave Joe the body of an up-and-coming boxer, Murdock.

But what of Bette? Bette still knew Joe, even in Murdock's body. The story ended on a happy note, with all indications of a bright future together for Bette and Joe.

The Mummers version of heaven and a lost soul proved to be a real high light in the Lincoln High roster of plays this year.

Messenger 7013 seems aghast at Joe Pendleton's audacity, but nothing bothers Mr. Jordan or heavenly messengers played by Wayne Miles and Paul Scheele.

Jim Taylor, Paul Bieberstein, Gregg Doty, Ann Weaver, Kathleen Ackels, Ronald Hagen, Ron Cooley, and Darleen Goodding check on Mr. Jordan's passenger list.

Maryann Lebsack shows Messenger Wayne Miles her name on the list as Lloyd Reed, Margaret Korn, student director Lura Ann Harden, and Jerry Bryan wait their turns.

"On Guard!" shout dancers Charlene Katz and Shirley Jesse as they match sabers to the rhythm of the "Saber Dance."

Poor Gertrude, Alison Faulkner, is again in the clutches of the villain, Bob Wells.

Joy Night on the Air

The April air was alive with entertainment. In the darkened auditorium all eyes were upon the lighted stage where "Joy Night on the Air" presented a variety of talented musicians, magicians, dancers, and actors.

A high level of entertainment was maintained from the welcoming choruses of the Boys Glee to the lovely strains of "The Nutcracker Suite" sung by the Girls Glee.

Gerald Bryan, the announcer, kept his programs synchronized and displayed his dramatic ability in a monologue.

Zany commercial announcers illustrated the merits of their miraculous products.

Comedy came roaring forth when the L Club portrayed another exciting adventure of the mighty Lone Stranger and his faithful companion, "Ugh".

Some outstanding musical acts were heard. A swing band and a sax quartet played easy-to-listen-to tunes. On Nancy Kiely throws her baton high in the air in her intricate tap and twirl routine.

Senior girls go "Dancing in the Dark" in another impressive Joy Night act.

Vonna Finley "sings it sweet" as Jerry Bryan studiously prepares his next commercial.

Paul Bieberstein's band plays both sweet and hot . . . but always well.

the classical side was the music of a trumpet trio and a two-piano team. Novel musical numbers included Kay Schmoker's accordion playing and Lynn Holland's distinctive singing to her own accompaniment.

The audience was spellbound by the singing of Monty McMahon, Vonna Finley, Nancy Rodwell, and Bob Cumming and charmed by the music of the girls octet and trio.

Mack, the Magician, had the audience baffled with his strictly out-of-this-world tricks.

Almost everything the devotee of the dance could hope for was seen at "Joy Night on the Air."

The Lincoln audience cheered in appreciation for such a rarely assembled galaxy of talent.

Snooky Coryell and Jane Deppen gracefully interpret the movements of "Clair de Lune."

"The good old days gone by" . . . get a work-out by Judy Wiebe and Jo Ann Dosek.

The three little fishes better watch out when Miss Weatherby joins Miss Miller for an outing.

"H. M. S. Pinafore" . . .

Hardy sailors and gracious ladies walked the deck of His Majesty's Ship Pinafore on March 3 and 4. They brought their illustrious ship to anchor in the L.H.S. auditorium and captured a large audience with their singing of melodious music by Sir Arthur Sullivan.

The Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, "Pinafore," is a rollicking satire on the mighty British navy. It is generally conceded to be one of the most popular operettas written by these masters of music and lyric. A cast of excellent characters portrayed the eventful plot.

Captain Corcoran is the captain of the Pinafore. His daughter, Josephine, is sought in marriage by Sir Joseph Porter, K.C.B., who ceremoniously comes on board the Pinafore. Josephine does not appreciate his attentions because she is in love with Ralph Rackstraw, a humble sailor on board the ship. Ralph dares to confess in front of all his messmates that he is desperately in love with Josephine. They conspire to steal ashore at night and have the lovers married by a clergyman.

The villain, Dick Deadeye, shatters their hopes by warning the captain of their scheme.

Prompter Joyce Hays asks Joy Unger to be a more shocked Cousin Hebe as Ray Barnett, as Captain Corcoran, astounds Elton Monismith, as Sir Joseph Porter, by shouting and stamping his foot.

Ralph is taken to a dungeon. The turn of events comes when Buttercup, the bumboat woman, reveals that many years ago she practiced baby farming. She mixed up a babe of high birth with one of low condition. The well-born babe was Ralph, and Captain Corcoran was the other. Sir Joseph then bestows Josephine upon Ralph since Sir Joseph's marriage with a commoner, which Josephine has now become, would be out of the question.

All is serene as three pairs of lovers, Josephine and Ralph, the Captain and Buttercup, and Sir Joseph and his cousin, Hebe, are united.

But all was not serene as the audience rose to applaud the efforts of the talented cast who successfully docked in the L.H.S. Harbor.

"Carefully on tiptoe stealing..."

Nancy Rodwell comes just in time to save Wayne Miles' life as they portray the lovers, Josephine and Ralph.

It may not be just acting that makes Naegeli von Bergen as Buttercup and Roland Wagner as the Midshipmite shy away from Paul Laase as he realistically presents the revolting Dick Deadeye, but prompter Shirley Murphy approves.

The Girls Cheer . . .

"Our teams are red hot!" and so is the pep section led by cheering, laughing Peppers, flaunting the school colors with perky red hats and sweaters, bearing emblems of the school, above neat black skirts.

The Peppers are symbolic of the united school spirit as the cheers ring out in the football stadium, the basketball court, or the track arena.

At popular fifth period assemblies before home games, the L.H.S. auditorium rocks on its foundation due to yells led by the sixty senior girls chosen by tryouts for membership in this organization.

Elaborate and exaggerated skits portray the feminine ideas of sports procedure. Athletes, coaches, or opposing teams all suffer from the mimicry generously portioned to the male contenders.

Spirited rallies are held when the teams have to travel, but Peppers follow the teams whenever possible. This year Peppers traveled to Omaha and to the district tournament at Fairbury, Nebraska.

Besides attending many sports events as a group, they sell refreshments at all home football games. With these profits and money received from this year's sale of license boosters, they finance most of their activities.

Another factor essential to Lincoln High athletic contests is the group of six enthusiastic cheerleaders. Chosen through annual tryouts, they lead the student body in cheering the many teams on to victory. Running, jumping, cheering, or worrying, they adequately express all the exhilaration felt by the crowds.

The life of a cheerleader must be a happy one judging from the smiles of L.H.S.'s fine cheerleaders, Ronald Wasser, Burnette Noble, Roland Wagner, Pat Nellis, Joanne Dosek, and Jo Ann Berry.

Georgia Morey, representing every cheerful Pepper, hands out programs at the football games.

• • • and the Boys Drive On "A Lincoln man is never down" is the cry that is in the minds and hearts of the young men whose athletic talent has labeled Lincoln High School a top prep school in all athletic events in the state of Nebraska.

The young men belonging to the L Club represent the cream of the school's crop in their respective sports. In order to gain membership in the L Club, a boy must first win the major letter "L". This is won by boys who fulfill definite requirements in participation and achievement.

Athletic letters are awarded by the Athletic Board on the basis of: 1. Recommendation by the coach of the sport with the approval of the Athletic Board. 2. Clean sportsmanship at all times. 3. Quality of effort and ability displayed throughout the season. 4. Sufficient participation in games or meets.

An even more united spirit is rapidly coming about since the inauguration of the L Club banquet two years ago. The banquet is open to all lettermen presently in high school and to all lettermen who have graduated.

The L Club plays an important part in school activities, too, with their annual winter and spring awards assemblies. The club is also a perennial participant in the school's Joy Night production, where intricate dance routines and gripping drama give proof of the members' other abilities.

Gridiron Galahads . . .

The Lincoln high school football cheering section is no place to relax because "win or lose" the tension runs high.

It took three able managers, Jim Estes, Bob Bartizal, and Jarrell McCracken, to run the Lincoln High football squad.

Overcoming the lack of experience in the Lincoln High grid squad, Coach Bill Pfeiff and his able assistant, Lyle Weyand, sent the Links ahead to capture four out of eight starts.

Starting the season with only four returning lettermen, none of whom were regulars from the preceding year, the Links went against a fairly strong Gothenburg eleven. An aggregation of over 4,000 people saw an all-new Lincoln club take the opening kick-off and start on a 50-yard scoring parade and then go on for the remainder of the contest to outclass the Gothenburg defense and to give the Links their first seasonal victory, 25 to 0, on the home turf.

Then Lincoln stretched its winning streak to two by taking a slight marginal victory over the out-state lads of Sioux City East in their annual Missouri Valley meeting. The Links made a goal-line stand in the last seconds of play to give them a 19 to 12 victory.

The winning streak came to a halt when Lincoln Northeast met their city rivals at Magee Memorial Stadium. After eight years of holding the throne, the Lincoln squad failed to show their supremacy as they took a 14 to 12 defeat. Two extra points over the crossbar seemed to be the only margin of victory between the two clubs, as the game was noted for frequent fumbles and blocked kicks.

Warm-up drills are part of every-day life for the grid squad, as Coach Pfeiff puts his men through the paces.

A trip out west was next on the Links schedule when the Bearcats of Scottsbluff, a seven-point favorite, played host in the 11th renewal of the grid series. The intersectional game did not go as planned, and the mighty Lincoln eleven clipped the Bluffs to the tune of 25 to 12 with all the scoring packed into the second and third stanzas. The best the Bearcats have achieved to date is a tie with the Lincoln crew.

A crowd of fewer than 1,500 fans watched the capital city lads fall at the field of the Omaha South Packers, which was the third win over the Links in the history of the two schools. The passing of the Packers kept the Links on their toes, but all was in vain as the Omaha club racked up a 19 to 13 upset in the mud.

Two more Omaha schools came into the Lincoln grid scene as Omaha Tech baffled the Links crew to the count of 33 to 7, to give them top berth on all sporting polls. The Red and Black turned around and surprised Omaha Central by handing the Eagles a 43 to 13 trimming. The Eagles tried gamely but failed to fluster the determination of the Links defense.

Once again the Lincoln high footballers failed to defeat their final rivals when Grand Island outclassed the Lincoln crew in the second half to take a 20 to 12 decision before an overwhelming crowd of over 5,000 spectators. The underdog Lincoln team unleashed a powerful first-half offensive threat but faltered after the intermission.

Four returning lettermen will join the 1950 Lincoln crew when they again face a tough Class A schedule.

Regal Reserves

The Lincoln High Reserves walked through their season undefeated. The Junior Links opened with a 12-12 tie with the Boys Town Reserves. This was the warm-up for the Links Seconds, who were scheduled to take on a rugged Fremont Reserve crew. The Reserves, under the coaching of Harold Scott, rambled on to wallop the Tiger Reserves 21-2.

The Scottmen got their chance to avenge that 12-12 deadlock with Boys Town when a return match was slated October 26. They collided with the Dodge Street crew head-on and came out a 13-6 victor.

The finale came when the Reserves clashed with the Omaha Tech Reserves and had to be at the peak of performance to drop the Maroon seconds 8-6.

If the Reserve season reflects what is to come for the Varsity, things look bright in LHS football.

Valiantly attempting to overcome a serious lack of experience plus one of the toughest schedules, this season's Lincoln High cagers were able to scrape together eight wins against eight drubbings for a .500 in regular season play.

The bright side of this somewhat dim account, however, is in the realization that six lettermen, Ladd Hanscom, Brien Hendrickson, Rich Jennings, Dave Jones, Roger Petrie, and Dean Sloan, will be eligible next year to form a nucleus for Coach Weyand's 1950-'51 squad.

Starting off the season with a bang, the Links knocked off two opponents. In the opener with Scottsbluff the Red and Black grabbed the game out of the fire when Stan Kniffin scored on a set-up in the final minute to hand Lincoln the win 28-27. St. Joe (Mo.) Central was downed 35-23 for the second victory of the young season. But as they moved away from the familiar Whittier maples to foreign courts, they proved victims to five out of six consecutive foes, three of whom were Missouri Valley squads.

Immediately upon returning home for a tilt with Sioux City East, the cagers swallowed a Black Raider squad 37-35, when Ladd Hanscom set the Links ahead via two shots from the gratis line; but the following night Sioux City Central, Missouri Valley Champion, decisioned the Lincolmites 47-37.

Again the university coliseum was the scene of the annual city classic between Northeast and the Links. Underdogs from the start, the Lincoln hoopsters outfought the state champions for a whole half, but couldn't quite keep up the pace in the last periods. The final was 42-35.

Splitting their last two Missouri Valley tilts, the Links handed Omaha Central a 38-37 nipping, thanks to a last minute free throw by George Russell, and took a 45-36 nudging from Abraham Lincoln.

However, the Weyandmen came through in fine style toward the end of the regular season by whipping three foes, Hastings 36-23, Norfolk 36-31, and McCook 40-34.

No, that's not Beau Brummel, but Roger Gohde, dependable manager for the cagers.

In the state class A regionals, the Lincoln crew hit a red hot dark-horse Falls City squad, who slipped past the Links 28-27 after a late comeback try sputtered.

Rating an all-state honorable mention and scoring honors for the club, Larry Knee played exceptionally fine ball at the center slot all season. Runner-up Bennett Martin, cool set-shot artist, proved his worth at forward with his point grabbing consistency.

This year's Junior Links cagers came through in fine fashion, seemingly a requirement for squads coached by Harold Scott. Garnering a fine record of 11 wins against only one loss, the Reserves climaxed one of their toughest schedules in Lincoln High annals.

This year's docket included most of the Missouri Valley schools encountered by their older Varsity brothers. With this type of schedule, only the Abraham Lincoln Reserves were able to top the Red and Black.

Big gun for the team this year was center Ted Forke, who netted 104 of the total 429 points scored. Dick Wells and Joe Carter added 67 and 63 markers, respectively, from their guard positions.

Grabbing four wins in seven fracas, Coach Sam Hale's sophomore cagers wrapped up one of the best records in several years.

Coach Hale commented that this season's squad was the best all around he'd seen since beginning his coaching at Lincoln High. Two men advanced to the Reserves and one to the Varsity, a commendable feat for this fine group of sophomores.

Terrific Tracksters . . .

Up and over goes Bob Selden as he sails across the cross bar.

Managers Tom Kissler, Roger Brendle, and Larry Hickey could always be counted on for encouragement and a helping hand.

Scouting for personnel to gain squad depth this year, Coaches Bill Pfeiff and Harold Scott have planned to better last year's record as state runners-up.

Lincoln High trackmen won the 37th Annual Central Nebraska Championship at Hastings when they out-classed Grand Island $29\frac{1}{3}$ to $25\frac{1}{3}$ to lead a host of other schools.

The Links depended on Brien Hendrickson, who is making his mark as one of the state's best sprinters, winning the 100 and 220 yard dashes and serving as anchor man on the 880 relay team. His early season 10:2 clocking in the century and 23 flat in the 220 are close to topping the state. Bob Selden bargained a three-way tie for first in the pole-vault at over 11'.

The Red and Black cindermen lay claim to one of the state's better mile relay teams. The quartet of Bob Pyche, Charles Yungblut, Joe Gordon, and Jarrell McCracken clicked off this event in 3:44.0.

Bob Cunningham was always counted on for points in the mile event. "Relentless Robert" turned in a fine 4:51.5 clocking in the mile.

In the field events letterman Eldon Park returned to throw the discus, and Dick King was gaining valuable points with his good shot put mark of near 48'.

Bright hopefuls aided these veterans. Dave Jones, brother of crack half-miler Hobe, can step off a good 2:10 for the 880 event.

Links are getting greatest opposition from Omaha schools, Beatrice, and Lincoln Northeast, but with the squad at peak performance, they can hope to make a strong bid in the State and Missouri Valley Championships which climax their season.

Dick King lets go a mighty heave to send the heavy shot soaring.

Bob Pyche displays the stick that means so much to fellow relay-men Joe Gordon, Charles Youngblut, and Jarrell McCracken.

Bob Babcock studies Eldon Park's technique as he sends the discus flying.

Always one of the first to break the tape is Brien Hendrickson, top sprinter and Links salesman.

Merry Mermen

The biggest thrill of this year's athletic season was the spectacular showing by the Lincoln High mermen who netted the first state championship of the year in a major sport for Lincoln High, as a successful ending to their regular season.

The tankers who finished their tough dual meet schedule with a 2 win-5 loss record, annexed the state laurels by defeating their closest competitor, Omaha Tech, 52-47.

After absorbing three stiff defeats in their openers from Des Moines North, Roosevelt High, and Boys Town, the Links got back on the victory trail by nudging favored Omaha Tech 40-35. Losing their next to Boys Town, the Links divided in their last two duals, trouncing Hastings 57-18, Completing the Links diving line-up for the past season are brothers Jerry and Dick Davis and state diving champ Stan Schneider. Offering careful instructions and advice is manager Jack (Romeo) Trabert.

but falling to Omaha Tech 45-30.

Always dependable scorers were standouts Charlie Youngblut and Dick Wieland, free stylers; Blaine Ward and Ron Kilb, breast stroke; and Dick Davis, diver.

Several of the first year men, free styler Sammy Haupt, back stroker Larry Good, and State Champion diver Stan Schneider, proved by their sparkling performances that the Links will be tough to beat in the future.

Perfect backstroke form is illustrated by a sophomore duo, Larry Good and Jerry Davis.

A happy lineup is this quartet of breast stroke, Fred Boucher, Blaine Ward, Ron Kilb, and Paul Jordan.

Muscular Matmen

In case you didn't know, that's a crotch hold and a full Nelson in a back bridge that Skip Derieg is applying to Jimmy Owens.

Many bright spots showed up this season in Lincoln High's comparatively new sport, wrestling, even though a tough schedule deprived the grapplers of a team victory.

The 1949-50 mat competition opened with the Omaha North Invitational and closed with the State Meet held in Omaha. Between these classics the Links, coached by Max Hansen, faced six formidable opponents, all Omaha clubs, and the Missouri Valley fracas.

Individual honors went to Bobby Heaton, who grabbed the 130-pound crown in the Missouri Valley matches and made the finals in the state meet. He won second place.

Ron Dunn in the 136-pound class; Bill Tussey, 145-pounder; and Eldon Park in the heavyweight division also reached the semi-finals in the state tourney.

Other leaders in their weights this year were: 95-pound Mickey Derieg, 105-pound Bob Glen, 112-pound Jim Owens, 118-pound Chick Graham, 124-pound John Crancer, 155-pound Del Hunt, 165-pound Ted Barger.

Seemingly devising an escape, Ron Dunn is held by Bobby Heaton in the referee's position.

What do you have there, Mr. Crancer? From here it looks something like Chick Graham's head.

Now, is that a fair match? Ted Barger is down but not out under the weight of Eldon Park.

WRESTLERS: Second Row: Mr. Hansen, Tussey, Dunn, Wasser, Park, Barger, Hunt. First Row: Glen, Heaton, Crancer, Graham, Derieg, Owens.

Rangy

Racketmen . . .

Lincoln High tennis was definitely on the up-grade this spring as a well-rounded and balanced squad took to the courts.

In the fall meet Phil Sorensen was Lincoln's winner in the quarterfinals, defeating Ed Safranek 6-8, 6-4, and 6-3. However, Phil dropped his semifinals match to eliminate the Links and hand them a fifth place in the tourney.

For the most part this year's team was composed of Bob Barrett, Bud Hamilton, Del Harding, Don Isherwood, Phil Sorensen, and Bob Wells.

As usual the squad tested four clubs: Fremont, Fairbury, Boys Town, and Valley on the Lincoln court, playing the same quartet on their home grounds. Also they met Creighton Prep in Omaha, finally winding up the season at the State Meet in Lincoln and the Missouri Valley held May 20.

Bob Barrett serves them straight and smooth as he prepares to slam the ball across the net.

It takes a sharp eye and a cool mind to plan game strategy and play a fast game at the same time. Del Harding wants the ball just right before he streaks his return.

Bob Wells explains one of the finer points of the game to teammates Phil Sorensen, Bob Barrett, Bud Hamilton, and Del Harding.

Like all good sportsmen, Phil Sorensen and Bud Hamilton shake hands after a tough match.

Golfing Greats . . .

"FORE"

was the cry of the Lincoln High golf team as they stroked their way to another successful season. Playing with only one veteran in Roy Wythers, the Linksmen were able to capture the state fall golf tournament. This team was composed of Roy Wythers, Bob Volz, Roger Gohde, and Allan Anderson.

Wythers and Volz took the honors with a 75 and 76 respectively to help the Links take a 230 scoring mark to Grand Island's 241.

The 1950 season saw only one change from the fall golf entries, that being Ben Martin, who took a 78 to join Wythers, Volz, and Anderson for the first three meets.

They made a fine start by punishing Grand Island 7½-4½.

Almost every year in past history the Lincoln High golf team has had a spectacular season. Since the spring of '43, the Linksmen have won every consecutive state meet and also, with the exception of '45, the golf teams have come up with the Missouri Valley Championship.

Ben Martin takes a hefty practice swing as he polishes his game in the L.H.S. oval.

Allan Anderson and Roy Wythers discuss putting technique in preparation for a coming meet.

Bill Aldrich tallies his score as Roger Gohde and Dick Beechner kibitz.

Hal Mardis blasts his way out of the sand trap onto the No. 4 green at Lincoln Country Club as Dick Schilling waits his turn.

Shortstop George Russell and catcher Don Scanlon join Joe Carter on his third base spot for a bit of relaxation.

George Gohde receives congratulations from all after his relief pitching pulled the Boys Town game out of the fire.

Waiting for a chance at bat are Don Weber, Doug Wells, Don Becker, and John Maser after being coached by Rich Todd and Sam Hale.

Diamond Dazzlers . . .

This year's Links baseballers were faced with one of the toughest schedules that the Red and Black diamond dazzlers have faced for some time.

No less than 8 of the 12 games were scheduled this year with Omaha clubs. As is recognized, the greatest competition comes from the perennially strong Nebraska metropolis teams.

In the season's opener, Lincoln blasted out a 10-9 victory over a good Boys Town nine. Ray Barnett, who was credited with the win, pitched good ball and was aided by the sensational relief pitching of George Gohde.

Umpire George Hametz calls "strike" as Ted Holtgrewe swings in the Boys Town game.

The slide is wasted as Marshall Kushner, Lyle Blue, and Dick Stoehr watch Ted Holtgrewe tag Jerry Johns for the out.

Managers Larry Davis and Max McCartney pack up after the Boys Town game.

Douglas Wells and John Maser also chimed in with outstanding performances at the plate and in the field.

In their second game of the season, the Links met the Omaha Benson Bunnies, who had been tabbed as one of Omaha's top teams, and the outcome was a close 2-1 victory for the Bunnies. Robert "Roxy" Keller pitched one-hit ball against the Benson team, while his mates were able to garner only two hits. Keller's pitching was outstanding. Ten batters went down via the strike-out route as he hurled seven innings of no-hit ball.

Double headers with Lincoln Cathedral and Millard and six games with Omaha teams furnished the competition as an ambitious team well coached by Sam Hale went on to complete the season.

Mr. Hale explains a grip to the pitching crew, Ray Barnett, George Gohde, Bob Cecil, and Bob Keller.

Superior Sportswomen . . .

Peanuts! Popcorn! Candy! Who could ask for anything more to eat at a Lincoln High football game? G.A.A. salesmen are on the job at every game selling food to the spectators. Not only can they earn emblems and letters, but the sales profit goes into the G.A.A. treasury to buy concession stands and equipment for the new stadium.

Girls Athletic Association has the future in mind—theirs and Lincoln High's. Their after-school sport program has a sport for every girl. All girls may get into the swing, become members, attend the meetings, and earn emblems. Two emblems in the same sport entitle the winner to membership in the L Club (girls only).

G.A.A.: Fourth Row: Templeton, Mills, Lehman, Boomer, Barnds, D. D. Borgaard, D. L. Borgaard, Kruger, Adkisson. Third Row: Leybold, Slagle, Hetherington, Crowl, Egger, Katskee, Trabert, Ford, Jackson. Second Row: Kahler, Farnham, Keim, Setzkorn, Sell, Anderson, Bolton, Lautenschlager, Ellison, Gordon. First Row: Crawford, Crook, Wessel, secretary; Speidell, recording secretary; Diamond, vice-president; Stolz, treasurer; Jones, president; Herr, Kahm.

G.A.A. BASKETBALL TEAM: Second Row: Schleuger, A. Quattrocchi, Farnham, Mueller, Randolph, Mason, J. Quattrocchi, Wohlfarth. First Row: Crawford, Orput, Dewey, Stolz, Herr, McMartin, Moore.

Touch football starts the after-school sport season on the run. This sport, like all others, has a tournament after a period of preliminary practices.

Recreational swimming brings mere maids with mermaid interests into training for the girls swim meet.

Lifesaving interests many advance swimmers, and under the training of a lifesaving or Red Cross instructor, a few of these girls become senior life savers.

Horseback riding has fall and spring participants. Middle western misses show true horsemanship.

Strikes needn't always apply to baseball, for it's a happy bowler who makes a strike on the bowling alley. The most skillful "bowlerette" is determined by the bowling tournament.

Ping-pong and table tennis are both popular indoor after-school sports. Tournaments are for both single and double entries.

Flora dora girls had nothing on G.A.A. tap dancers. Tap lessons are given after school, and the girls dance at one of the G.A.A. meetings to earn their emblems.

PING-PONG: Diamond, Gordon, Moore, Lautenschlager, Peterson, Wacker, Nothnagel.

Talent for Mr. Weyand's Varsity basketball squad seems to be in the sophomore girls basketball team. The sophomores put the smart seniors to shame and the juniors came in second. What is this older generation coming to?

January 19 was the annual G.A.A. award luncheon. Any girl who earns a letter or emblem during the first semester comes to the luncheon to receive her award. The second semester assembly permits award winners the opportunity for receiving their honors.

G.A.A.: Fourth Row: Morgan, Peterson, Speidell, Mason, Randolph, Slote, Moore, Warren, Maser, Somerheiser. Third Row: Weber, Hogan, Turley, Schleiger, Patterson, McMartin, Meinke, Wohlfarth, Mueller, Katt. Second Row: Eastman, Schleuger, Imlay, Pieper, Taylor, Stepanek, Torrey, Olson, Miller. First Row: A. Quattrocchi, Weiss, Mellinger, Rohrig, J. Quattrocchi, Tatman, Marx, Orput, Dewey.

April showers and May flowers are signs of spring and baseball season. Baseball brings more girls out than any one other sport. As in other activities, a schedule is arranged, and finally one baseball team emerges victorious through the elimination system.

Perfectly poised are the G.A.A. archers. Archery helps develop posture and steadiness.

What a racket! That's the tennis racket. Girls compete in double and single tennis tournaments to determine the champion racketeers.

Golf demands a good supply of golf balls, a par score, and precision. Girl golfers take their game seriously, and the competition is tough.

For any nature-loving girl who likes exercise, hiking is just the sport. Those who enjoy walking can have their fill and earn an award, too.

G.A.A. BOWLING: Second Row: Stahnke, Plock, Hascoolidge, Mason, Morgan, Rohrig, Gordon.

G.A.A. SELLERS: Wessel, Jones, Schleiger, Rohrig, Farnham, Goeden, Tatman.

Thus, G.A.A. and after-school sports provide girls with activities which reward them by keeping them healthy, happy, and busy, and also award them with emblems, letters, or a half-hour credit.

G.A.A. HORSEBACK RIDERS: Standing: Mrs. Helen Ackerman, judge; Whitmore, Warren, Jones, Farnham, Wessel. Mounted: Broer, Colbert, Patterson, Crowl, Weston, Rohrig, Johnson.
